ADMIRAL URGES
48 BATTLESHIPS

Charles J. Badger Tells House Committee Navy Should Be Better Prepared.

WANTS 100 SUBMARINES

United States Should Build Four Dreadnoughts a Year Until 1919.
Would Then Rank Second.

Striking testimony relative to the upbuilding of the navy was given before the House Committee on Naval Affairs yesterday by Admiral Charles J. Badger, member of the general naval board.
Admiral Badger, who was until recently, in command of the Atlantic Fleet, and who has high standing in the service, told the committee that the United States in order to be in the best possible shape for war should equip itself with forty-eight battleships of the first line.
He said that the United States has at present only thirty-two battleships, and that it is necessary to build four more battleships a year until 1919 and a corresponding number of submarines and other craft. If such a program were adopted, the United States would, in five years, be in a position to rank second in the world as a naval power, succeeding Great Britain in that position.

Submarines Efficient.
Admiral Badger testified to the efficiency of the submarine as an offensive adjust of the fleet, but made it clear he did not wish to be understood as saying that additional submarines should be obtained at the sacrifice of battleships. He brought out during Admiral Badger's testimony that the United States has forty battleships. Of this number fifteen are Dreadnoughts, or vessels that could be utilized in the fighting line in time of war, and twenty-five pre-Dreadnoughts. Of the pre-Dreadnoughts Admiral Badger said that the Indiana, Oregon and Massachusetts are obsolete by reason of the fact that each is more than twenty years old and should not be given serious consideration in calculating the fighting efficiency of the navy.

Admiral Badger made it clear that in advocating the equipment of the navy with forty-eight battleships he had in mind dreadnoughts only. The adoption of his program would require the addition of thirty-three dreadnoughts, including those now building and ships to be authorized. With the pre-dreadnoughts in commission this would give the United States a fleet of seventy-three battleships of all classes.

Admiral Badger said submarines should be used for the coast defense of the United States and insular possessions.
Admiral Badger said he would not station these submarines in any particular section; he would keep them in fleet under direction of the commander-in-chief of the fleet. He said there were few doubts of the efficient offensive qualities of submarines.

Admiral Badger took occasion to deny that the navy had lost neglected target practice.

HALF-AND-HALF
FIGHT ON TODAY

District Bill Is Started on Its Way Through Lower House.

OLD BATTLE OVER AGAIN

Prouty Would Have Treasury Supplement, but Not Match Money Raised from District Taxes.

With an agreement for five hours general debate, the 1915-16 District appropriation bill was started through the House late yesterday afternoon.

This morning the House District Committee will be called upon to report favorably on the bill wiping out the half-and-half arrangement, increasing the tax basis to a full valuation and calling for taxation of intangible personal property. If the House committee reports this bill—the first draft of which was prepared by Representative Prouty, of Iowa, Republican—the bill will be offered as a legislative amendment to the District appropriation bill when the measure comes up for consideration under the five-minute rule.

Thus the same old fight, led by the same old forces of destruction and reconstruction, using the same old methods, is on over the half-and-half principle. Chairman Johnson, of the District Committee, favors the Prouty plan in the main. Mr. Johnson will aid the original author of the plan in obtaining favorable action in the District Committee.

Democratic members of the subcommittee of the Appropriation Committee, which framed the appropriation bill, will oppose the Prouty plan, whether it receives the endorsement of the House District Committee or not. If it comes up with a favorable report a point of order will not be raised, but if it is offered without a point of order, the Chairman of the subcommittee will make a point of order that it is new legislation which does not require expenditures and which is offered as an amendment to an appropriation bill.

LECTURES ON ART PERIODS.

Persons Details Different Styles with Respect to Time.

"The Italian decorative styles, and their influence on all subsequent art periods," was the subject of Frank Allen Parsons in the second lecture of his series on decorative arts at the National Museum Auditorium, last night, under the auspices of the Washington Society of the Fine Arts. The heart of Mr. Parsons' discourse was this: Italian renaissance was the result of a rebirth of Hellenic art into a Gothic environment.
All art is based upon these three elements: Greek, Gothic and the renaissance or "Humanistic." Greek art was simple, sincere, consistent and the beauty of pure form was the highest aspiration.
Gothic art was religious. The renaissance was Greek art poured through the Gothic sieve. "If I should take a glass of milk and pour it through a black sieve and then through a red; that would be a renaissance," said Mr. Parsons. After things had been poured through the last sieve nature was sensualized.

Mr. Parsons has a fine epigrammatic style of delivery. "You can't buy a man to turn out art objects," "There are art objects everywhere," "Hanging your pictures so that they are parts of decorative groups and not abnormal growths on the wall," these are a few of the terse and pointed things that Mr. Parsons threw out of hand, in his lecture. Very instructive were the choice of lantern illustrations, including the Parthenon and some Greek and renaissance details.

Col. Hodges Coming Here.

Col. Harry P. Hodges, Engineer Corps, who aided Col. Goethals in the construction of the Panama Canal, yesterday was ordered to this city from the Canal Zone to assist Col. Henry C. Newcomer as engineer officer of the Washington district. The order is to take effect January 1.

Will Call Off Colorado Strike.

Secretary Garrison said yesterday afternoon that he has been advised that the Colorado coal mine strike would be called off. It is his expectation that the twenty troops of United States cavalry now in Colorado will be withdrawn as soon as President Wilson has been officially informed of the termination of the strike and can issue the necessary orders.

"LOVE GREAT ASSASSIN"
OF AMERICAN YOUTH

Dr. Wiley Pleads for Fresh Air and No Sweet-Medicine Not Needed for Colds.

Shuddering children, determined fathers and wondering, sympathetic mothers left the Thompson School last night after Dr.
Harvey W. Wiley had finished a speech before the Home and School Association.
Every one was talking. They had food for conversation. Dr. Wiley had laid down rules for health among children, and had gone into details. Here are some of them:

"Three-quarters of the children who die are killed by love. Love is the greatest assassin."

"Let us have plenty of fresh air. If a great holocaust should come and burn down every house in America, we should get rid of tuberculosis. If farmers would burn all barns, there would be no tuberculosis among cows. When I see a cow shivering in cold rain and sleet, I say, 'Dear Madam Cow, you're never going to have tuberculosis.'"

"Fresh air, not cough medicine, is needed for colds. A prescription I gave to a friend who was taking home a bottle of cough medicine—at his wife's orders—for his child, was to put a bottle of medicine in the child's room at night, open all the windows, and throw the bottle out of any one of them."

"The temperature even in living rooms should not be more than 69 degrees. It is more than that in this room now."

Dr. Wiley paused as volunteers opened the windows and the audience, realizing that they were too warm, started shedding wraps.

"I don't want to see as many regulations as there are in Kansas, where a man made a bet that he could go for a day without violating an ordinance, only to be arrested, after he had spent seven-eighths of the day in bed, because the sheets in the bed were not nine feet long. But I would like to see candy stores forbidden within 1,000 feet of schools. They will not allow saloons within 400 feet, and no child will go in a saloon if there is a candy store adjacent."

"In bringing up my son, I have tried to make him healthy. He has never tasted candy, cake or ice cream. He doesn't care for them. When he goes to parties, he carries with him hard graham biscuits, which he eats while other children are eating sweets." government when stricken with the illness that terminated fatally. He was sixty years old.

Flames Threaten Prisoners.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 8.—Flames broke out in the paint shop of the New York State Reformatory today, and for a time the main buildings of the institution, housing over 1,300 inmates, were threatened. The inmate fire brigade did heroic work. The loss will exceed $150,000.

IN THE DISTRICT COURTS.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

For the District of Columbia and Maryland—Cloudy and colder with probably some heavy drizzle. Thursday partly cloudy; fresh northerly winds.

For Virginia—Cloudy and colder Wednesday.
Thursday fair; moderate to fresh variable winds.

The most storm has passed northward to the Canadian maritime provinces, and the violent gusts of the last three days on the Atlantic coast have subsided. Overcast, unsettled weather, however, continues over the greater part of the country, and during the last twenty-four hours there were rains and snow in the Middle Atlantic States and Southern New England, snow in Ohio and Middle Mississippi valleys, the Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain region, and rains on the North Pacific coast and in the Gulf States.

Temperatures are somewhat lower in the North Central States, the Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain region, and they have changed little elsewhere.

There will be local rains and snow Wednesday and cloudy weather Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States and generally fair weather in New England.
There will be local snow Wednesday in the Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys, the Plains States and the region of the Great Lakes. In other parts of the country not heretofore referred to the weather will be generally fair Wednesday and Thursday, except that rains will continue in the North Pacific States.

The winds along the North Atlantic coast will be fresh to strong northerly; on the Middle Atlantic coast moderate variable breezes blowing fresh north-ers on the South Atlantic and the Gulf coasts moderate breezes, on the Gulf coast moderate north-ers; on the upper Lakes strong northerly and westerly; on the Lower Lakes strong northerly.

NOTE.—The daily forecast of storms and small warnings on the first Lakes will be discontinued for the season at the termination of December 31, 1914.
